

JUNIOR QUALITY ASSURANCE ENGINEER

Connecting Software is looking for a Junior QA Engineer to be based at our office in Madeira Island. Could that be you?

Connecting Software is an Austrian company with nearly two decades on the market. We have offices in the U.S. and Europe. Our headquarter is in Vienna - Austria, but we also have offices in Malacky – Slovakia, and Madeira Island (Portugal). Our clients are based everywhere in the world, and the work environment is great!

Curious to know how your day shall be like?

- You will be performing quality assurance testing activities to ensure the applications, products, and releases comply with the Quality Assurance standards of the organization.
- Develop test plans, test scenarios, test cases, test data with automatic testing in mind for different testing activities.
- Implement and execute both manual and automated test cases, capture test results, test metrics, and report them.
- Build automated processes for testing to improve quality and throughput.
- Improve API's user-friendliness by giving constant feedback to the Development Team members.
- Identify and track system defects. You will perform root cause analysis of the defects and work with the Development Team to resolve them.

To cope with that, we need you to have some required skills:

- Knowledge of a programming language (C#, Python, .NET)
- Knowledge of SQL and be able to write simple queries.
- Be comfortable working with distributed version control systems and project management tools (GIT or similar).
- Good knowledge of Software QA methodologies, tools, and processes.
- Familiarity with Virtualization tools.
- BS/MS degree in Computer Science, Engineering, or a related subject
- Most important of all, willingness to learn new stuff and share what you know.

Finally, in terms of soft skills, it would be nice if you have the ability to organize and perform tasks, teamwork, proactivity, an eye for detail, and, last but (absolutely) not least, good English communication skills.

If you feel like you are a fit for us, apply today! Send us an email to office@connecting-software.com with your resumé and motivation letter in English (documentation in other languages will not be considered).

If you want to learn even more about us, we kindly invite you to reach out to us or access our social media channels.

We are waiting for you!

